

GEV C & I Terms & Conditions*

The event costs will be met by GE Vernova but all other costs and expenses (including traveling and lodging) will be from your own account. In accepting the invitation to this event, you acknowledge that the hospitality is acceptable by you under any relevant codes of conduct that apply to your company, and has been disclosed to your company in accordance with any such code of conduct or other transparency requirements.

Attendees should comply with Anti-Trust and Competition laws, and should not discuss with each other any topics which could give the impression of anti-competitive behavior such as prices, profit, business strategies, bidding strategies, the allocation of markets, customers, territories, or any confidential information which competitors would not normally share with each other.

By accessing this invitation, you consent to GE Vernova (or its subcontractors) handling your personal data for administration and marketing purposes, in connection with your participation in this event.